

VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

Lecturer of Biology

Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences

Full-time, Non-tenure-track, Instructional Faculty

Position #F0344

Longwood University, a historic public liberal arts institution and host of the 2016 U.S. Vice Presidential Debate, invites candidates to apply for a full-time, non-tenure-track position in Biology to begin August 2019.

A comprehensive university with a strong liberal arts foundation, Longwood has a distinctive mission to develop citizen leaders who are prepared to make positive contributions to the common good of society. Founded in 1839, Longwood is the third-oldest public university in Virginia and is part of the proud tradition of higher education in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Roughly one hour's drive from Lynchburg, Charlottesville and Richmond, Longwood is located in the historic two-college community of Farmville, at a historic crossroads near where the Civil War drew to a close and powerful strides in the civil rights movement began. Today, Longwood has more than 5,000 undergraduate and graduate students and more than 34,000 alumni. It maintains affiliations with the neighboring Robert Russa Moton Museum of civil rights history and the Longwood Center for Visual Arts, one of just a few dozen nationally accredited university art museums. A member of the Big South Conference, Longwood competes at the NCAA Division I level. Longwood's 26th President, W. Taylor Reveley IV, took office in June 2013.

The Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences seeks an individual with demonstrated experience teaching lecture and laboratories in Introductory Biology, Microbiology, and/or Human Anatomy and Physiology. The successful candidate will be required to:

- Collaborate with faculty to prepare courses consistent with departmental expectations and provide data for departmental reporting and analysis
- Prepare and grade assignments, keep office hours (minimum of 4 hours per week), and complete other typical duties associated with University teaching
- Contribute to the mission of the Department through participation in departmental meetings, service on a departmental committee, interaction with students outside of the classroom, and an overall commitment to being an active member of the faculty

Minimum requirements: Ph.D. (or ABD) and experience teaching undergraduates preferred. MS with 18+ hours of graduate coursework in biology and prior experience teaching undergraduates considered.

Salary will be $43,900. Commonwealth of Virginia benefits accompany this position. A successful criminal background investigation is required. Position will be posted a minimum of five business days. Review of applications will begin April 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other national service alumni are encouraged to apply. To apply, please email a single PDF attachment that includes a letter of application, curriculum vitae, unofficial graduate transcripts, statement of teaching philosophy and research interests that includes how the candidate serves diverse populations in the classroom, names and contact details of three references, and "Release of Information Form" (http://solomon.longwood.edu/media/human-resources/solomon/RELEASE_form04.05.doc). Please indicate Position #F0344 in the subject line and submit documents to: sciencedept@longwood.edu.

Please submit the "EEO Data Collection Form" (<http://solomon.longwood.edu/media/human-resources/solomon/EEOFormrevJuly2012.pdf>). The EEO form is voluntary. Please indicate Position #F0344 and submit documents to:
