

VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

Lecturer in Music, Strings

Department of Music

Lecturer, Instructional Faculty

Position #F0347

Longwood University, a historic public liberal arts institution and host of the 2016 U.S. Vice Presidential Debate, invites applications for a full-time lecturer position in the Department of Music (#F0347) to begin August 2019.

The Department of Music at Longwood University is seeking to create a new strings program, which will begin with private lessons for string instruments and chamber music opportunities for students. The second phase will be the creation of a string orchestra and finally a full orchestra. The successful candidate will be a keystone in creating this exciting new program and will also teach courses in the Core Curriculum. Applicants must have at minimum, a master's degree in Violin/Viola by August of 2019 as well as university-level teaching experience. Candidates must demonstrate commitment to student recruitment and the development of relationships with secondary school music teachers, show flexibility regarding teaching load, and be willing to collaborate.

Responsibilities include:

- teaching applied violin/viola
- recruiting and maintaining a string studio
- directing a string ensemble
- coaching chamber music groups
- teaching string techniques courses
- teaching World Music, Music Appreciation, or other core curriculum courses
- performing on and off campus as soloist, chamber musician or in other professional ensembles
- collaboration with colleagues and attendance at university and departmental events

A comprehensive university with a strong liberal arts foundation, Longwood has a distinctive mission to develop citizen leaders who are prepared to make positive contributions to the common good of society. Founded in 1839, Longwood is the third-oldest public university in Virginia. The Department of Music has 18 full-time and part-time faculty serving 60 music majors and the entire campus community through our general education curriculum offerings.

Longwood is part of the proud tradition of higher education in the Commonwealth of Virginia. Roughly one-hour's drive from Charlottesville, Lynchburg, and Richmond, Longwood is located in the historic two-college community of Farmville. Longwood currently has more than 5,000 undergraduate and graduate students and more than 34,000 alumni. It maintains affiliations with the neighboring Robert Russa Moton Museum of civil rights history and the Longwood Center for Visual Arts, a nationally accredited university art museum. A member of the Big South Conference, Longwood competes at the NCAA Division I level.

Salary will be commensurate with credentials and experience. Commonwealth of Virginia benefits accompany this position. A successful criminal background investigation is required.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other national service alumni are encouraged to apply. To apply, please email a single PDF attachment that includes a letter of application, curriculum vitae, unofficial graduate transcripts, statement of teaching interests and philosophy that includes how the candidate serves diverse populations in the classroom, and names and contact details of three references (indicate Position #F0347 in the subject line) to: music@longwood.edu
